

Cube Info Solutions web site case study

Issue

Cube Info Solutions is an IT consulting firm providing services to small and medium business. It needed a good functional web site.

Solution

We designed a good web site with three bucket format. The left side bar used for menu, content area for main content and right side bar for special promotions, attention getters, photos and other information that did not fit into the main content. The site also features case studies, testimonials and links to articles, images, flash animation, etc. The contents were provided by the owners. All aspects of web design including needs analysis, domain search and registration, design and development, site installation, submission to search engines, etc. were handled by Cube Info Solutions.

Result

With many features Cube Info Solutions is able to provide all the information to its customers. It differs from many other IT service company web sites which use standard template contents lacking originality, authenticity and credibility. The company was able to better promote the company and communicate with its customers.
